Hi Tammy,
Thanks for completing the reference for Froedtert. I haven’t heard anything yet. Unfortunately, I had to meet with a staffing agency rep, first because the clinical manager was on vacation. The rep doesn’t understand the difficulty in finding a site to complete clinical hours. Truth is I’ve struck out twice, now. In terms of Acacia... I got tossed after the 2 week trial period. It was ridiculous. I think and act like a counselor, how dare I! Dr. Lothian soon after fired several others: QUALITY clinicians and staff. It is ridiculous. Milwaukee clinics seem to treat their MA clients with a corrections model. I don’t fit that mold. Happy to say, I don’t fit that mold, but it leaves me again without a job or supervisor.

I’ve meant to write this quick note for quite a while concerning MSOE:
I met with Joe Meloy in June and learned that Mary Jo Wellenstein would be retiring in June. She has passed the baton to Cheryl Crawford, a long term Asst. Director of Housing at MSOE. Cheryl also completed an MS in Counseling some years ago and did her internship at MSOE counseling center. Cheryl, however, has to also work on her clinical hours and licensure. The department incorporated her into a counseling position last year so that she could begin working on her supervised hours. This, therefore, reduced the number of interns they could accept to just one. Joe is the only one who can supervise interns at this point. Jess Suhr, a clinician at MSOE, is part time. Jess is not supervising interns.

As such, competition for the MSOE internship is more difficult. As you know, Joe’s suggestion, again, was that Mt. Mary has to get their applications in sooner. Marquette sends apps in at least a month earlier and Joe (and Mary) have always determined their intern choice in February (very early).

I hope this inside scoop is helpful. I know you have wondered why Mt. Mary interns have not been successful in securing a position at MSOE.

Take care.
