

Haggerty Library Open Access Statement

Haggerty Library is committed to making academic research and scholarship widely available. We believe that open access to all types of research is critical for scholarly communication and the future of libraries. We pledge to offer freely available, Open Access (OA) journals, research databases, and any forthcoming technological innovations whenever and wherever possible.

Among the growing database examples are the Directory of Open Access Journals, Public Library of Science, and BioMed Central. Access these and others easily on our Databases A-Z page, where you can limit to OA.

You can find Open Access journals in Primo's Journal Title Search and across any search results. Additional Open Access sites and resources are available throughout Haggerty Help Guides.

Since 2013, Mount Mary's digitized theses and dissertations have also been Open Access.
