WRC Treatment Programming

The philosophy underlying the treatment programs at the Wisconsin Resource Center is based on principles that are universally accepted in the mental health treatment field and have been proven to be effective by research.

WRC's treatment programs are inter-disciplinary. Education, Therapeutic Services, Social Services, Clinical Services, Nursing, Medical and Unit staff combine their knowledge and skills to develop and deliver the inter-disciplinary programs at WRC.

WRC employs a unit-based treatment concept. Male inmates are assigned to 20-34 bed units based on common needs or characteristics. The Wisconsin Women's Resource Center (WWRC) has three units with 10, 12, and 23 beds respectively.

The inmates are convicted felons who have been referred to WRC by the Department of Corrections for special mental health or behavioral treatment.

Volunteer Opportunities

Volunteer participation is vital. One of the most valued assets of the Wisconsin Resource Center is its volunteers. The volunteer experience is a win/win situation for you and the Wisconsin Resource Center.

You can assist the Wisconsin Resource Center in the delivery of programs and services which will help the inmates and patients to become more productive, educated, self-sufficient, and law abiding citizens.

In turn, your volunteer experience can be very rewarding for you because you will be helping others rise above their circumstances as a direct result of your efforts.

Currently WRC enjoys the services provided by volunteers in most of our religious services programs and drug/alcohol education programs. We have a need for volunteer workers in religious services, activity therapy, and in our education department.

As a Wisconsin Resource Center "Regular Service" Volunteer (someone who volunteers on an ongoing basis) you may work a very flexible schedule contributing as many hours per week as agreed upon with your Work Area Supervisor. As an "Occasional Volunteer" you are encouraged to work at least 2 hours per month.

The Wisconsin Resource Center will provide you with adequate training and the appropriate utilization of your time and talent.

Special events

The WRC Volunteer Program organizes a special event whereby a plaque for "Volunteer of the Year" is awarded. This special event provides an opportunity for WRC Staff to show gratitude to our Volunteer of the Year for his/her outstanding service to the State of Wisconsin and the Wisconsin Resource Center.
